

LAW

Garden City law firm expanding to Manhattan

The Garden City law firm of Stagg, Terenzi, Confusione & Wabnik has opened an office in the heart of New York City.

The law firm's new office, located on Broadway in Manhattan, is the fourth location for the full-service firm, with other offices located in New Jersey and Connecticut.

"The acquisition of a new office in Manhattan is a natural outgrowth to meet the needs of our clients," Managing Partner Thomas Stagg said.

While the firm's headquarters will remain on Long Island, "the added office location is close to many of our clients and the courts, and is convenient for our employees living in New York City," Stagg said.

— JOHN CALLEGARI